COLONEL HENRY MARTYN BOIES

COLONEL HENRY MARTYN BOIES, whose illustration appears on page 1, is one of Pennsylvania's enthusiastic Guardsmen. While not in active service at the present time he was the first commanding officer of the Scranton City Guard, and subsequently at the merging of this organization into the 13th Regiment he became its Colonel, and for many years has been untiring in his efforts to secure a proper building for the command. His interest in military has never ceased, and he has frequently pointed out to the business community the necessity of a suitable armory in the city of Scranton. The structure is nearly completed, and will be dedicated some time in January. It will be a gala day for the famour 13th, and one of the proudest moments of the Armory Committee. Colonel Boies is very popular in the rank and file of the Regiment, and the men regard him as somewhat of a "Moses" on the armory question.

Colonel Boies is a graduate of Yale and is the president of the Moosic Powder Company. He is also a noted inventor of the cartridge package for blasting powder, and a new and improved steel-tired car wheel. He was the former president of the Dickson Manufacturing Company and the Boies Steel Wheel Company. He is greatly interested in the advancement of Scranton City, being a member of the Board of Trade. He is also a member of the State Board of Charities and the Committee on Lunacy. He was a delegate to the National Republican Convention in 1884 and the International Conference on Arbitration at Washington, D. C., in 1896. He is an author of no mean ability, and one of his best-known works is "Prisoners and Paupers."

OPERATIONS OF OUR SQUADRON.

The comparison of both navies, based upon the studies made in prevision of a war with the United States, suggested to the Admiral the following considerations on February 25, 1898:

If we compare the Navy of the United States with our own, counting only modern vessels capable of active service, we find that the United States have the battleships Iowa, Indiana, Massachusetts, Oregon and Texas; the armored cruisers Brooklyn and New York; the protected cruisers Atlanta, Minneapolis, Baltimore, Charleston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbia, Newark, San Francisco, Olympia, Philadelphia and Raleigh, and the rapid unprotected cruisers Detroit, Marblehead and Montgomery. Against this we have, following the same classification, the battleships Pelayo, Infanta Maria Teresa, Vizcaya and Oquendo, armored cruiser Colon, and protected cruisers Carlos V, Alfonso XIII, and Lepanto; no fast unprotected cruisers; and all this, supposing the Pelayo, Carlos V, and Lepanto to be ready in time, and giving the desired value to the Alfonso XIII. I do not mention the other vessels on account of their small military value, surely inferior to that of the nine gunboats, from 1,000 to 1,600 tons each, 6 monitors still in service, the ram Katahdin, the Vesuvius and the torpedo boats and destroyers, which I do not count. I believe that in the present form the comparison is accurate enough.

Comparing the displacements, we find that in battleships the United States have 41,589 tons, against our 30,917 tons; in armored cruisers they have 17,471 tons, against our 6,840; in protected cruisers, 51,098, against 18,887, and in fast unprotected cruisers they have 6,287 and we none. The total of vessels good for all kinds of operations comprise 116,445 tons, against 56,644 tons, or something less than one-half.

In speed our battleships are superior to theirs, but not to their armored cruisers. In other vessels their speed is superior to ours.

* * * * * * *

To arrive at this appalling conclusion I have already said that it has been necessary to count the Pelayo and Carlos V, which probably will not be ready in time; the Lepanto, which surely will not be ready, and the Alfonso XIII, whose speed renders her of a very doubtful utility.

IMPOSSIBILITY OF AN OFFENSIVE CAMPAIGN.

Now, to carry out any serious operations in a maritime war, the first thing necessary is to secure control of the sea, which can only be done by defeating the enemy's fleet, or rendering them powerless by blocking them in their military ports. Can we do this with the United States? It is evident to me that we can not. And even if God should grant us a great victory, against what may be reasonably expected, where and how would we repair the damage sustained? Undoubtedly the port would be Habana, but with what resources? I am not aware of the resources existing there, but judging by this department, where everything is scarce, it is to be assumed that the same condition exists everywhere, and that the immediate consequences of the first great naval battle would be the enforced inaction of the greater part of our fleet for the rest of the campaign, whatever might be the result of that great combat. In the meantime the enemy would repair its damages inside of its fine rivers, and aided by its powerful industries and enormous resources. This lack of industries and stores on our part renders it impossible to carry on an offensive campaign.

* * * * * * *

If the control of the sea remains in the hands of our adversaries, they will immediately make themselves masters of any unfortified port which they may want in the island of Cuba, counting, as they do, on the insurgents, and will use them as a base for their operations against us. The transportation of troops to Cuba would be most difficult and the success very doubtful, and the insurrection, without the check of our army, which would gradually give way, and with the aid of the Americans, would rapidly increase and become more formidable.

These reflections are very sad; but I believe it to be my unavoidable duty to set aside all personal considerations and loyally to represent to my country the resources which I believe to exist, so that, without illusions, it may weigh the considerations for and against and then, through the Government of His Majesty, which is the country's legitimate organ, it may pronounce its decision. I am sure that this decision will find in all of us energetic, loyal and decided executors. Our motto is "the fulfillment of duty."

To the Admiral.

MADRID, March 4, 1898.

I notified you that when I should have recovered somewhat from the painful impression caused by the reading of your personal letter,

Arrival of the Twelfth at Shenandoah.

Lieut. Col. Joseph B. Hutchinson, 8th Infantry, arriving at Shenandoah Sept. 22 1900 with his provisional battalion 6 hours after call to arms had been issued

I should answer it, and I now do so, and will first take up the comparative study of the United States naval forces and ours, which, taken absolutely as you have done, omitting some of our vessels at Habana, which are available for a conflict with the United States, show a difference of tonnage, but not so excessive as would appear from your lines. In my opinion, the matter should be studied from the standpoint of the present distribution of the United States forces, remembering that it will be to their interest to maintain the ships now in the Pacific for the protection of San Francisco and the arsenal of San Diego, as also their costly trans-Pacific liners plying between the former city and Australia and China, and also to protect the Hawaiian Islands, about to be annexed to the United States, for which reason naval forces are being maintained there. With your good judgment you will understand that the long and difficult voyage which these forces, among them the Oregon, would have to make in order to join the Atlantic forces, leaving the Pacific region unprotected, could not be effected without the knowledge of others, and so far all such knowledge is absolutely lacking. I must, therefore, refer you to the enclosed statement; while it shows deficiencies, which the Government is endeavoring to remedy at any cost by the acquisition of new elements, if only in the matter of speed, they do not exist to such an extent as stated in the comparison with the United States Atlantic Squadron. There is no doubt that, in order to concentrate our nucleus of forces we shall require some time, the whole month of April, in my estimation.

Since I have been in charge of this department, His Majesty's Government has known the situation of the great nucleus of our naval forces, which are being remodeled or repaired abroad, and in conformity with such knowledge the Government has endeavored, and is endeavoring by every possible means, with a view also to the general interests of the country, to pursue in its relations with the United States a policy of perfect friendship, although at times points have come up which were not easy of solution. But with your good judgment you will understand, and I want therefore to remove some misapprehensions regarding the island of Cuba; our flag is still flying there, and the Government, to meet the sentiments of the people, even at the cost of many sacrifices, desires that this Spanish colony should not be separated from our territory, and is trying by every possible means, political, international and military, to solve satisfactory the Cuban problem. That is the prevailing opinion of the country, and it conforms its actions thereto. As already stated, the Government is acquainted with our situation, and for that reason is endeavoring to collect all possible resources at Habana Harbor, fortifying it so that it may serve as a base for our naval forces, equipping it with a dock, already in operation, where our ships will be able to repair slight damages.

It is my opinion that it will not be possible, either on our side or the enemy's, to repair those injuries which may be caused by the action of a battle in the short period of time in which international military campaigns are enacted, compared with the material interests they affect. The other harbors of the island, such Cienfuegos, Santiago de Cuba, etc., are prepared to be closed by means of torpedos. In your estimate you do not count for anything the effect of homogeneous troops, well trained and disciplined, as against the United States crews of hirelings (mercenaria), and you might find historical facts, evoking sad memories for us, to confirm what I say. I will close, never doubting for one moment that you and all of us will fulfill the sacred duty which our country imposes upon us, and in giving you my opinions in answer to yours there is nothing that I desire more than peace.

SEGISMUNDO BERMEJO.

Letter from the Admiral.

CARTAGENA, March 7, 1898.

[Yesterday I received your personal letter of the 4th, to which I am about to reply, but you must first permit me to give you a general idea of our situation as I see it. That it is the intention of the United States to engage us in war appears beyond all doubt, and it therefore becomes more important each day to examine into the advantages and disadvantages which such a war may have for us. Inspired by these ideas, I deemed it my duty as a patriot to reply to the official communication through which I was advised of the distribution of the American vessels and the condition of certain points on the United States coasts, and I did so in my personal letter of February 25 last. To-day, feeling at liberty to express my ideas more freely in a confidential letter, I will reply to your communication.]

An examination of our forces, based upon what I already knew and upon recent information and observation, not only confirms what I said, but shows it to be still worse. I have visited the Vitoria, on which I counted, and from my visit I have drawn the conviction that we cannot count on her for the present conflict. Neither does any information permit me to count on the Pelayo, Carlos V, or Numancia. And yet, as this opinion is not based upon personal observation, I include them in the inclosed statement (solely because you have included them in yours). Whatever may be the direction given to the conflict, either war, negotiations direct or through a third party, an arbitrator or otherwise, the longer the decision is delayed the worse it will be for us. If it is war, the longer it takes to come the more exhausted we will be. If it is negotiation of any kind, the longer it is postponed the greater will be the demands, each time more irritating, which will be presented by the United States, and to which we will have to yield in order to gain time in the vain hope of improving our military position. And as our position can not be improved, let us see what we can expect from a war under such conditions.

MAJOR GEN'L CHAS. MILLER, DIVISION HEADQUARTERS.

It would be foolish to deny that what we may reasonably expect is defeat, which may be glorious, but all the same defeat, which would cause us to lose the island in the worst possible manner. But even supposing an improbability—that is, that we should obtain a victory—that would not change the final result of the campaign. The enemy would not declare himself defeated, and it would be foolish for us to pretend to overcome the United States in wealth and production. The latter would recover easily, while we would die of exhaustion, although victorious, and the ultimate result would be always a disaster. Only in case we could count on some powerful ally could we aspire to obtain a satisfactory result. But, besides having to discount the high price to be paid for such an alliance, even then we would only be postponing the present conflict for a few years, when it would become graver than it is to-day, as is the present insurrection in comparison with the last.

NOTES FROM THE NAVAL MILITIA.

The Naval Militia have begun again the regular routine drills, which had been discontinued since the State inspections held in June.

Later in the same month the annual one week's cruise on the U. S. S. Prairie took place, when the Battalion received an excellent rating from the board of regular service officers, appointed to report to the Navy Department. The Battalion was rated as a whole for discipline, physique, infantry, broad sword, pistol, physical and great gun drills, and for signals and target practice. In addition the officers were given almost daily examinations in navigation, and were given individual ratings according to their general efficiency and methods of performing duty.

Since the cruise there have been no regularly ordered drills, but the cutters have been in frequent use by volunteer crews, who, under oars and sails, have explored the river, and have devised and carried out successful attacks upon such insufficiently guarded places as Washington Park, Gloucester and other points of equal tactical and other interest and importance.

There have also been a number of Saturday to Monday trips down the bay and out to sea on the U. S. S. Shearwater. On three of these the Shearwater anchored off Cape May and the Militiamen had a chance to try going through the breakers with their new surf boat, a feat which was usually successfully accomplished, but sometimes resulted in some one getting a bit wet.

Cape Henlopen also was used as an anchorage a couple of times by the amateur men-o'-warsmen, who are already looking forward to next season, and hoping for the price of coal to drop.

NEARLY 50 per cent of the officers of the 2d Brigade have resigned since the organization of the Guard. It would appear from the many changes that the line is not altogether in sympathy with the regimental administrations.

VARIOUS suggestions have been made by officers and military correspondents throughout the State to improve our system of inspections. The editor of "Our State Army and Navy" Journal, from a long personal experience, feels that the best plan to judge the efficiency of a company and secure a uniform rating throughout the Guard is to have an officer from the regular service detailed and temporarily assigned to the Governor's staff with a State commission of Major or Lieutenant Colonel, receiving the pay attached to said rank.

If this method can be consistently adopted, good results will surely follow.

A PRACTICE seems to be in vogue by some of the company commanders to "blow in" considerable money on entertaining their commands, and in this manner secure a large attendance. The members of these companies seems enthusiastic enough, and it is but natural that men will reach out for a "good thing," but let the entertainment cease and see where your soldiers are.

The National Guard is a peculiar organization, and the regular routine of drill must be interspersed with a little social ardor, but then the line must always be drawn and the dignity of the commission upheld and the plain duty pointed out to the men.

Experience has shown that such companies whose men are sincerely interested in their adopted profession and are willing to make personal sacrifices to keep up the esprit-du-corps, are the organizations that the authorities usually depend upon in time of need, and it is also a noted fact that the efficient officers and soldiers come from these organizations.

THE EFFECTS of the coal strike will be felt in the National Guard organizations, and particularly so in the 1st Brigade, who receive an annual donation of sufficient fuel to heat the armories throughout the fall and winter. If the city decides to cut this off, owing to the scarcity of coal, it will be a severe blow to the organizations, especially to the naval contingent, who received $200 worth last fall in order to heat the U. S. S. St. Louis, their rendezvous, at Queen street wharf. Much of this coal, however, was transferred and consumed on board the Shearwater, which made frequent practice runs throughout the summer, and now the bunkers of the St. Louis are empty.

THE IMPORTANCE of having an engineer or signal corps attached to the Guard was again demonstrated when the troops were called to Shenandoah. Many of the officers knew little about the surrounding country, and only for the prompt and public spirited action of Captain Baird Halberstadt (formerly 4th Infantry, who is a civil engineer by profession), were Brigadier General Gobin and his staff enabled to get an accurate idea of the troubled section of the anthracite region. Captain Halberstadt fully appreciating the danger ahead, and being thoroughly familiar with the coal fields and having the necessary data, he at once made a drawing of the affected district, and in four hours' time had sufficient blue prints ready for General Gobin and his staff and the several commanding officers.

As exclusively suggested in "Our Army and Navy" Journal some time ago, the State authorities should take this important branch of the service up immediately. Under the law of April, 1899, provision is made for such an organization, but the difficulty has been want of sufficient funds to carry the matter into active form. For the present a corps of this kind might be organized in the following manner:

Captain Halberstadt may be assigned temporarily to the Division or Governor's staff, and each Brigadier General to have the appointment of a temporary engineer or signal lieutenant, each commanding a platoon attached to the several Brigades, the platoons being composed of four special duty men from the several Regiments, thus bringing the enlisted strength to fifty-six and with the four assigned officers to the maximum limit of sixty.

We believe a formation of this kind to be perfectly feasible until such time that the Legislature can be induced to make proper provisions for its special maintenance.

Personal Mention

Captain John Ancona, formerly of Company "E," 4th Infantry, will be the County Controller of Berks.

The passing in review of the 8th Infantry on September 30th at Shenandoah was only fair, Captain Owen's Company, of Pottsville, making the best showing.

A particularly unique service was held on September 30th in the 8th Regiment camp, and there is no doubt that many of the soldiers profited by the sound advice given by Captain Eberly, who was assisted by a choir of forty voices and the regimental brass band of thirty-five pieces.

The 3d Battalion of the 6th Infantry, commanded by Major Charles F. Lumb, has resumed drill and is getting into excellent shape for the fall and winter work. It is unfortunate in the extreme that there should be any feeling between the members of the old Fencibles and that of the present active command.

The men of Company "I," of the 13th (Captain Drake), were rather disappointed in not getting out in the Shenandoah campaign.

Many of the officers in the 4th are anxious to have this Company and Company "H," of the 8th, transferred to the 4th, thus completing the three battalion formation of Colonel O'Neill's Command.

Captain Daniel Eberly, Chaplain of the 8th Infantry, and senior of the State, entered the Guard December 2, 1875, and is a veteran of two wars, having served through the Rebellion and also the Spanish-American War. He is very much beloved by the rank and file, and is untiring in his efforts to secure all possible comforts for the men when in the field.

Every time a procession of Lithuinians passed headquarters, it was particularly noticeable that none of them turned their heads or eyes towards the Ferguson House, which was the headquarters of General Gobin. This was probably due to their military training in foreign armies, or they may have been instructed not to do so as a matter of slight to the military authorities in Shenandoah.

Major A. L. Williams, of the 1st Infantry, is one of the corporators of the Washington Grays, now Company "G" of the 1st Regiment. For many years Major Williams commanded this company, and was the first officer to parade a Northern company in Richmond after the civil strife.

The Artillery Corps Washington Grays, Company "G," 1st Regiment, N. G. P., were at that time the guests of the Richmond Blues.

The 2d Troop Philadelphia City Cavalry have had four captains. The originator of the troop was Captain Thomas Allen Glenn, who was succeeded by Captain Frank Edwards, 1st U. S. Cavalry. Subsequently Captain Edwards rejoined his regiment, and Lieutenant Richard Tilghman, formerly cornet of the 1st Troop Philadelphia City Cavalry, was elected Captain. When the troops returned from the Spanish-American War, Captain Tilghman resigned, and was succeeded by Captain Frank E. Schermerhorn, its present commander.

The senior captain of the State is Louis R. Walters, who commands Company "D" of the 6th Infantry, located at Phoenixville. The company was originally organized in 1870 as the Wheatley Cadets, and Captain Walters has been its only commander. While the Company has on several occasions failed to pass a creditable inspection, it is safe to say that at the present time the organization is in a high state of efficiency. This has been accomplished through the indefatigable efforts of Captain Walters, who has succeeded in enlisting young men from other towns adjacent to Phoenixville, thereby changing the entire personnel.

A committee comprising the several Inspectors of Rifle Practice of the 1st Brigade, assisted financially by all the company commanders, propose presenting to Major D. S. B. Chew, the Ordnance Officer, a handsome testimonial as a mark of their appreciation of his valuable service as Ordnance Officer.

The gift will in all probability be an ornament suitable for the Major's drawing room, and it is proposed to have the field, staff and line of the 1st Brigade attend the presentation ceremony, which will be held at Brigade Headquarters. General Thomas J. Stewart will be invited to make the presentation speech. After the ceremony it is proposed to have an informal smoker.

NOTES.

The best time made in former mobilization of our State troops was twelve hours. The recent response was accomplished in eight hours.

It is stated that "cucumber funerals" are quite frequent in the Shenandoah Valley, and that the annual losses of insurance companies are quite heavy owing to these mortalities.

LOVING CUP presented by LT. COL. FREDERICK W. STILLWELL

Our famous 1st Foot will soon discard their Austrian dress uniform for the natty American West Point gray. The adoption of the latter will be quite appropriate for the Regiment, as they were formerly known as the "Grey Reserves."

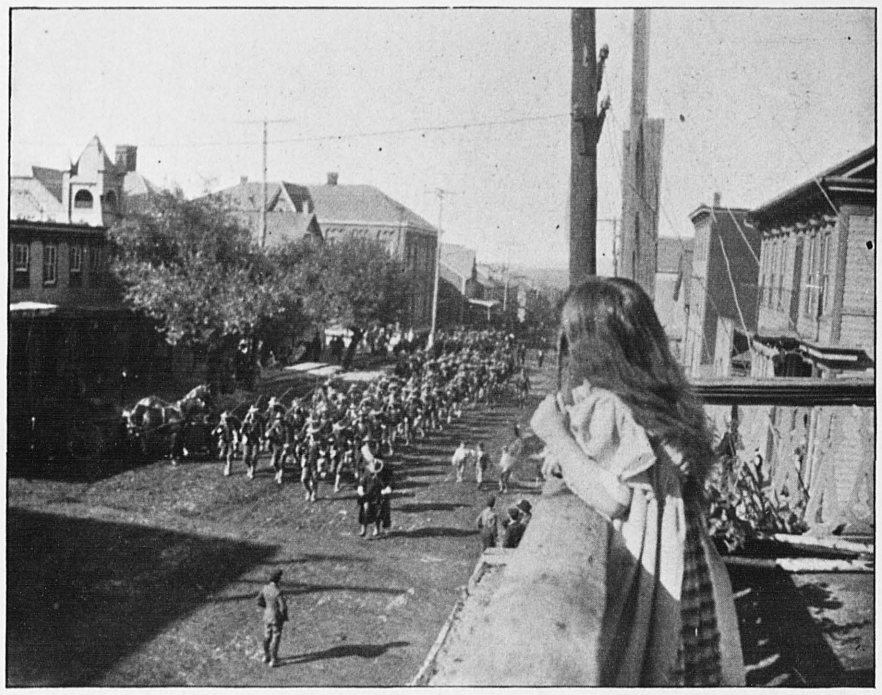
A funny experience is related by one of the officers in the 3d Brigade. While out on practice march one day the command experienced some little trouble with several old native washer-women, who yelled out at the top of their voices on approach of the troops not to fire, as they had just hung out a wash.

It seems ridiculous to offer military men of the artillery arm, sabres, especially for riot duty. This is an obsolete weapon, and under existing conditions should not be resurrected, not even for guard duty. The proper arm for all mounted troops is a Colts revolver. This should be issued to all officers of the line and accounted for on the property return.

At the reorganization of the Guard each Regiment was furnished with a new stand of colors. The national emblem is strictly U. S. regulation, the stars and the lettering being embroidered in white silk, but the State flag, with its coat of arms, is painted, and while the material is no doubt of the best, it is stated that a certain amount of acid in the coloring will cut the silk and perforate the edge of the painting, so that eventually it will fall out from the body of the flag. In several of the commands the painted standards will scarcely last another year.

The ball to be given by the 18th Infantry (Duquesne Grays) is to be arranged on the order of the affairs formerly held at the Academy of Music by the old State Fencibles. The subscription tickets will be $5.00, admitting a gentleman and two ladies, and it is expected in this manner to raise about $5,000.00.

In addition to the profits realized from this affair, it will be the means of bringing the regiment more prominently before the business community, and this in itself will be of invaluable assistance to the regiment in the future for their armory plans.



Practice March of Major Mickley's Battalion of the 4th Infantry.

OFFICIAL:

HE WON HIS BET.

An officer named Vinton was celebrated in his garrison for winning every bet. None of his comrades could boast of ever having been successful, and at last no one cared to bet with him. One day Vinton was transferred to another regiment, but the fame of his peculiar luck had already spread before him. After a supper tendered him by his new comrades on the evening of his arrival, and when champagne made its appearance, the Colonel called out:

"Is it really true, Vinton, that you win every bet?"

"Yes, Colonel."

"But how on earth do you do it?"

"Oh, very simply. I am a physiognomist."

"Well, what, for instance, can you read in my face?"

"I can see," said Vinton, promptly, "that the old wound in your side has broken out again."

"Nonsense!" thundered the Colonel.

"Perhaps you do not like to speak of it; perhaps—"

Oh! you wont believe me! What will you bet?"

"Anything you please, Colonel."

"A pony?"

"All right, a pony."

The Colonel at once proceeded to divest himself of his coat and shirt, and a scrutiny by all the other officers present revealed the fact that there was no trace of a wound whatsoever.

"You have lost your bet, Vinton," shouted the Colonel, resuming his garments.

"I have lost; but men may err sometimes. Here is your £25."

When the Colonel reached his headquarters that night he wrote to his old chum, the Colonel in command of Vinton's former regiment:

"Dear Friend—The story about Vinton's luck is all humbug. He had just made a bet of £25 that I had a wound in my side, and, of course, lost it."

The answer came back:

"Your greenness is truly charming! Your winning £25 has cost me £100. Vinton bet me that sum on the day of his leaving that he would make you, on the first evening of meeting, take off your shirt in the presence of your fellow officers."

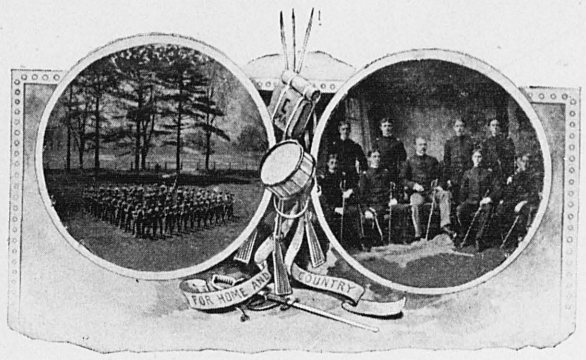
"AN IDEAL SCHOOL IN AN IDEAL LOCATION"



CHELTENHAM MILITARY ACADEMY, on the summit of the Chelten Hills, near Philadelphia, has a location and environment rarely equaled for beauty and healthfulness. The School was founded twenty-eight years ago by the late Rev. Samuel Clements, D. D., and from its opening has had the best class of patronage and has met with unusual success in the training and education of young men and boys. A majority of its graduates enter leading colleges or scientific schools, and for the past six years its annual representation in such institutions has been equal to one-half the attendance of the school.

Among the features that have contributed to the success and popularity of the Academy, the following will at once commend themselves to judicious parents: 1. The attendance is limited to seventy boarding pupils, in order that the classes may not be so large as to render attention to the individual pupil inconvenient or impossible. 2. Ten resident instructors (an average of one for every seven cadets), selected for their ability and experience and for their willingness to take an interest in the welfare and happiness of the pupils. 3. An honest endeavor to train and educate the whole boy rather than to merely prepare him to pass college entrance examinations. 4. The moral tone and influence of the institution.

The next school year begins Wednesday, September 26, 1900

Parents seeking the right school for a boy are cordially invited to visit the Academy, or to communicate with the Principal. Rooms are assigned in order of application.
